Every innovation has a story. What about yours? We encourage you to bring your passion, expertise, and experience, and to explore the sciences to your success at Dow in Terneuzen. Join our global team of problem-solvers by creating innovative solutions that contribute to solving the world's most pressing challenges. Are you ready to become one of Dow's next Faces of Innovation? Come and meet us during our University Inhouse Day on April 25, 2018 in Terneuzen.

What does the Dow Benelux University Inhouse Day entail?

The University Inhouse Day features an interactive and intense program in which you will get to know the world of Dow and our various internships, development programs and open positions. You will be participating in various activities on our Dow production site in Terneuzen. We introduce you to our company culture, our production site, a diversity of Dow functions, Benelux leadership and colleagues, among which a group of young professionals. We will close the day with drinks and a barbeque. The University Inhouse Day offers you a great opportunity to get to know our organization in an informal way, and to discover if Dow is the right fit for you.

For whom is the University Inhouse Day intended?

You are an ambitious academic student who is ready to become one of Dow's next Faces of Innovation. You are in your third year of the bachelor or the master's programme of your studies in Supply Chain, Purchasing, Commercial, Engineering, Manufacturing, and Finance, or a comparable study. You are not afraid of pressing challenges, you seize every opportunity to grow and develop your skills and talents, and you can't wait to impact your career in a great way. But above all, you are ready to discover the science to your success.

How do I sign up?
